

If You've Been Accused

If you have been accused of sexual violence, sexual assault, sexual harassment, dating/domestic violence or stalking, there are campus services available to help you understand your rights and the investigation and adjudication processes.

UC Berkeley students may visit this page for more information:

<http://survivorsupport.berkeley.edu/get-help>

By September 2015, all campuses will provide designated respondent services that can:

- Help you understand your rights
- Explain and help you navigate the investigation and adjudication processes, including formal hearings
- Refer you to campus and community resources, such as for psychological counseling, legal services (including help understanding and complying with protection orders), alternative housing, academic changes and other needs
- Assist with securing an interpreter or translator, if needed

 It is important to note that professionals providing respondent services are not legally required to maintain confidentiality. However, as a general practice, the coordinators will request signed consent from you before disclosing personally identifiable information.